

Canadian ARP Dossier Application Instructions

PURPOSE

This process was established to evaluate applicants who have the same competencies as measured by traditional eligibility routes, but who, for whatever reason, took a different path to gain those competencies. The purpose of the Dossier Review Form is to provide a mechanism for evaluators to review an applicant's work experience background to determine which competencies were met as a result of interior design practice experience.

The process is divided into three (3) steps:

1. Education Evaluation Review
2. Dossier Review
3. Personal Interview (if required)

Note: The Dossier Review process will begin once the results of the Education Review process have been completed and communicated or if utilizing solely work experience to determine eligibility.

CHECKLIST

- Applicant must submit a completed Dossier Review Form and supporting documentation in electronic format of interior design work experience which illustrates knowledge, skills and abilities for each standard on the Dossier Review Form.
- Applicant must provide a complete professional resume/vitae.
- Applicant must submit a minimum of three (3) projects. If more than 3 projects would illustrate the candidate's interior design experience to a greater degree or more than 3 projects are required to demonstrate competency of all standards, then additional projects should be included.
- Applicant must submit one reference letter from a registered design professional for each project or two reference letters from non-registered design professionals that clearly describe the applicant's roles and responsibilities for each project.
- Make payment in the amount of $605 USD application fee (non-refundable) if not already submitted.

Note: All documents, including supporting materials, MUST be completed in English. Any required translation must be performed by a certified translator.

INSTRUCTIONS

- 1a. Education Review Form Previously Submitted: CIDQ will provide feedback on the results of the Education Review and identify those standards for which credit was not awarded. Applicant must then complete the Dossier Review Form and supporting documentation to demonstrate knowledge of the standards based on their interior design work experience.
